DEFENSE'S PLANS IN HAYWOOD CASE

Cross Examination Shows Counsel Expect to Establish Great Counter Conspiracy.

BY ENEMIES OF W. F. OF M.

Sought to Show Orchard Has a Mania For Boasting of Crimes Non-Existent Except in His Own Mind.

Boise, Ida., June 10 .- Into the further cross-examination of Harry Orhard today counsel for William D. Haywood repeatedly threw the suggestion of a great counter-conspiracy, formulated and carried out by the enemies of the Western Federation of Miners, and indicated a determination to construct their main line of defense on that field. They carried Orchard by slow steps and through the minutest details from the dynamiting of the Indetails from the dynamiting of the Independence station down to the attempt on the life of Fred Bradley and his family, and in addition to a series of particular attacks on the credibility of the witness and the general probability of his stories, and preparing the way for their own testimony in rebutal, they sought to show that Orchard has a mania for boasting of the commission of crimes non-existent except in his own mind, and that he is testifying under the control and suggestion of Deder the control and suggestion of De-tective McParland.

tective McParland.
They began today by making it clear that as fas as Orchard knew of his own knowledge, Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone had nothing to do with the inspiration, planning and execution of the Vindicator explosion, and that Haywood and Moyer had nothing to do with the planning of the muder of Detection of the program of the product of the program of the product of Detection. planning of the murder of Detec-ve Gregory.

Passing then to the dynamiting of Passing then to the dynamiting of the Independence station, the first crime with which the testimony of Orchard directly connects Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, they endeavored to show that Orchard, in springing the mine, had purposely sought to spare the on-coming train and the non-union men who were expected to be on the train, and that the whole plot was engineered by agents of the mine owners and railway managers, who wanted a comparatively harmless "outrage" to injure the union miners who were on strike.

gineered by agents of the fillie owners and railway managers, who wanted a comparatively harmless "outrage" to injure the union miners who were on strike.

Leaving the Independence station crime, which was followed by the flight of Orchard into Wyoming and then by bis unexpected return to Denver, counsel for the defense sought to discredit the story that Haywood directed Orchard to kill Andy Mayberry by showing that Haywood and Mayberry are old and intimate friends.

Getting down to the Bradley crime they devoted themselves largely to the revolting story of Orchard's attempt to poison the entire Bradley household, including the infant child, which he had seen in a baby carriage, and Mrs. Crow, the cook, with whom he had made friends and whom he escorted to a theater. Into stronger relief than had the direct examination they threw the utter depravity of the witness, and gave the watching crowd the one deepnoted thrill of an otherwise wearying day. Orchard swore that while in San Francisco he repeatedly received money from Pettibone, who used the name of "Pat Bone" in transmitting-it, and in making this clearer today the defense gave evidence of a plan to show that this money was sent under Pettibone's name, thinly disguised by persons plotting against the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners.

Orchard denied that mine owners or railway men had any part in the Independence station outrage, denied that he had a mania for confessing uncommitted crimes, and denied that he is under the influence of McParland. He showed some spirit in answering many of Atty. Richardson's questions, but he firmly held to all of his first stories, and was calm and certain all throughout the long, trying examination. Two more crimes were brought home to Orchard today: he confessed that he burned a cheese factory in Ontario to get $800 insurance, and he confessed that he burned a cheese factory in Ontario to get $800 insurance, and reconstruction. Orchard has been on the stand five days and has fully two more to serve.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

After a recess Orchard resumed his story under cross-examination by Mr. Richardson, beginning with his visit to Cheyenne, after leaving Denver subsequent to blowing up the Independence depot.

Orchard had testified previously that he sent Pat Moran from Cheyenne to Denver to get $500 from Pattibone. Today Orchard said he had not met Pat Moran until he went to Cheyenne. Asked why he sent for more money, Orchard said he had decided to go on to California instead of locating in Wyoming. Orchard said there could be no mistake about Pat Moran. He was a saloonkeeper and the only Moran he knew in Cheyenne. Moran had worked for Pettibone and the latter had told Orchard to call on Moran if he stopped off in Cheyenne.

Moran, according to dispatches from Cheyenne, has denied that he ever went on the errand for Orchard. The witness said he gave Moran $10 for making the trip. The man brought back the money in a package and with it a letter from Pettibone.

Orchard told of meeting W. F. Davis in Cheyenne, Davis, he said, had been involved in the Coeur d'Alene and Cripple Creek troubles. Davis wanted to go along with Orchard and the two Nevilles to Cody.

"We didn't take him because he was too well known," said Orchard.

"He wasn't any bigger criminal than you were, was he?" suggested Richardson.

"He was known to be a bigger one at that time," the witness calmiy replied.

Arriving in Cody, Orchard said he lost all of his morey more than $500.

Arriving in Cody, Orchard said he lest all of his money, more than $500 in Hall's gambling house. He borrowed $50 from Hall and returned to Denver. This was in July, 1904.

AFTER "ANDY" MAYBERRY.

AFTER "ANDY" MAYBERRY.

The first man Orchard saw in Denver was Pettibone. He told the latter that he had spent his money in buying some lots in Cody. He admitted he had lied about the matter, for he did not want to tell Pettibone he had lost the money gambling. Within a few days he got $150 from Pettibone. He then met Haywood, who wanted him to go to Bingham, Utah, to assassinate "Andy" Mayberry, who had laid off a lot of union men at his mine. "Don't you know as a matter of fact that Haywood and Mayberry are, and always have been, the warmest of personal friends?" asked Atty. Richardson, "It may be see I didn't know it."

"It may be so; I didn't know it."
"Didn't you know that Haywood and Mayberry worked side by side in the

"I never knew anything about that," Orchard said he went to a man named Art Baston about helping in the Mayberry assassination and then talked further with Haywood and Pettibone in the latter's back yard. This was in a thickly-settled community, but Orchard said there was no attempt at concealment. They sat there an hour or two and talked about the crimes, "How loud did you talk?" asked Mr. Richardson. "Loud enough for each other to

"Loud enough for each other to hear."

At this meeting Haywood said he would like Orchard to go to California and get Fred Bradley. The Mayberry matter was abardoned,

"Why was it abandoned?" the witness was asked.

"I don't know."

Orchard said he had known Mayberry for several years.

"What was the reason for getting Bradley?"

Bradley?"

"Haywood said he was at the head of the Mine Owners' association in California and was raising a fund of several hundred thousand dollars to drive the federation out of the state."

Orchard denied that he had any grudge against Bradley from his experiences in the Coeur d'Alenes.

"You were just taking orders to kill from your chief?" suggested Richardson.

Richardson, "I wasn't thinking of getting any-thing on him-didn't have any desire MONEY FROM PETTIBONE.

The first money received from Petti-bone in California was $100, which came in a registered letter. Pettibone said in the letter that things were get-ting warm in Colorado—that Johany Neville and the boy had been arrested and the authorities were looking for Orchard. He said Orchard had better lay low.

The letter was signed "Pat Bone," The money was in $20 bills.

Orchard said he did not know to whom the return registry card was addressed. He thought the money came in the name of Wolff. The next money, another $100, came by Postal telegraph from "Pat Bone."

"Did you, while you were in San Francisco, go out one night to the end of the car line at Golden Gate park and hold up a street car conductor," asked Richardson.

"No, sir."

"Did you ever tell anyone you did?"

"No, sir."
"Did you ever tell anyone you did?"
"Yes, I believe I did."
"Then you confessed to a crime you did not commit?"

"And you have confessed to other crimes you never committed?"

The attorneys for the state objected to this, but the objection was over-

"You have a mania for telling stories of crimes, haven't you?"

"I don't know whether I have a mania or not." replied Orchard. "but I have told stories when others were telling of such things."

"You would read of crimes in the papers and then lay claim to them?

The witness then repeated his story about putting strychnine into the Bradley family's milk. Orchard had become acquainted with the cook and had once taken her to the theater. The Orchard said he had no difficulty in buying the strychnine.

"How much did you buy?"
"Either 10 cents or two bits worth, I don't remember which."
The strychnine was in crystal form, Orchard said he had to climb three flights of stairs to get to the back porch of the apartment occupied by Bradley. From his own room Orchard said he had watched the milkman place the milk there every morning.
Orchard was still under cross-examination as to the Bradley matter when court adjourned until 2:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Taking the witness back to the blowing up of the concentrator mill of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, of which Bradley was once the manager, Richardson asked him how long he had been a member of the federation at this time.

"About a month," replied Orchard. Before that time he had belonged to the Knights of Labor.

Starting for California "to get Bradley." Orchard said Pettibone bought his ticket for him and gave him $150 and a new gripsack. In San Francisco he stopped the first two weeks—in August, 1904—at the Golden West hotel, From there he went to a boarding place in Tenth street, Bradley was in Alaska when Orchard reached the city. While walting for him Orchard spent a part of his time in California, but received several letters from Pettibone. These he destroyed immediately after reading.

OLD SORES FED AND KEPT OPEN BY IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD Whenever a sore refuses to heal it is because the blood is not pure and healthy, as it should be, but is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which has corrupted and polluted the circulation. Those most usually affilieted with old sores are persons who have reached or passed middle life. The vitality of the blood and strength of the system have naturally begun to decline, and the poisonous germs which have accumulated because of a sluggish and inactive condition of the system, or some hereditary tains which has hitherto been held in check, now force an outlet on the face, arms. legs or other part of the body. The place grows red and angry, festers and eats into the surrounding tissue until it becomes a chronic and stubborn uleer, fed and kept open by the impurities with which the blood is saturated. Nothing is more trying and disagreeable than a stubborn, non-healing sore. The very fact that it resists ordinary remedies and treatments is good reason for suspicion; the same germ-producing cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore, and especially is this true if the trouble is an inherited one. Washes, salves, nor indeed anything else, applied directly to the sore, can do any permanent good; neither will remov-
